

“Get behind me, Satan!”

Jesus’ attitude to what is to come is without the slightest trace of self-surrender or desperation or enthusiasm or Bacchic longing for personal cessation of being. It is the very core of his will that speaks unshakable, terrible. Jesus was no cold Superman—he was more human than any of us. Entirely pure, unweakened by evil, he was loving and open to the core. His ardor, truth, sensitivity, power, capacity for joy and pain were unlimited, and everything that happened to him happened in the immeasurableness of his divinity. What then must have been Jesus’ suffering! God of himself cannot suffer, yet he did suffer: in Jesus Christ it was God who suffered. Jesus’ will to the Passion is not to be broken, but at thought of it, his whole frame shudders in the grip of unspeakable pain. We feel it in his furious reply to Peter, when the disciple, well-meaning but puny of heart, tries to dissuade him from going to his death in Jerusalem: “Get behind me, Satan, you are a scandal to me; for you do not mind the things of God, but those of men.” The will to sacrifice stands fast, but it has been torn from Jesus’ human nature and is still throbbingly sensitive; he can bear no tampering with it. Doesn’t Luke’s account of the temptation in the desert close with the words, the tempter “departed from him for a while.” Now he is back, speaking through the mouth of the disciple. Why does Jesus mention what is to come, in order to turn the course of events? To find help or at least alleviation of the load on his heart? The Gospels show again and again how he tries to make his disciples understand; how after both rulers and people have rejected him, he desires that at least his own be with him.

Father Mariusz’s Announcements

- Father Mariusz plans on having training sessions for ALL Eucharistic Ministers and Lectors soon—in the next few weeks or so. So be sure to watch the bulletin for more info to come.
- Thursdays with Fr. Mariusz was previously listed as only First Thursdays. (Sheryl’s error). Father will be having that class more than one Thursday per month. He will announce every Sunday at Mass if it will happen during that week, as meeting attendance by Father is also planned.
- “The Blessing of the Pets/Animals” Sunday ~ October 7th at 3pm, in the church parking lot. Fr. Mariusz will do this in honor of St. Francis of Assisi’s feast day which is on Oct. 4th. Bring your loved pets and animals for a special event. Have your pet on a leash so we can make sure there are no casualties! (One eating another)
- Get your Rosaries Out and Ready for during the month of October – The Month of the Rosary ~ the Rosary will be prayed every day 30 minutes before Mass in our parish .
